And President Wants to Boost It by $10 Billion

BY JAMES MCCARTNEY

WASHINGTON - If you think . the new $92.5 billion federal budget is big - take a look at the national debt.

It is well more than three times bigger - and President Kennedy now wants to hike the debt limit by another $10 billion.

The debt increased by about $7 billion during his first year in office, but almost all of that can be blamed on the Berlin crisis. Just a glance at these monumental figures is enough to make anybody dizzy.

But if you really want to get confused, put your mind to the a new peacetime high.

U.N. Rule Is Forgotten

In his year-end address to the General Assembly of the United Nations as it adjourned for the holidays, United States Ambassador Adlai Stevenson wisely and ably warned of the dire consequences that were bound to follow attempts in the U.N. "to apply one law in one part of the world or towards one group of states, and a different law to others." But neither Mr. Stevenson nor others who recognize this fact cafried out the advice in the Indian invasion of Goa.

When India attacked Goa, the Security Council met to decide on a resolution calling for a cease-fire, a withdrawal of troops to previous positions and using the Secretary General to try to bring an end to hostilities. The Soviet Union vetoed and killed the bill.

Mr. Stevenson, under questioning, pointed out it was rather foolish to bring the matter before the General Assembly necause by the time that body met the next morning, Goa had surrendered. He also pointed out that three other nations voted with Russia against the resolution in the Security Council.

But machinery set up in great part by John Foster Dulles was for the very purpose of getting around Russian vetoes in the Security Council by going to the General Assembly. It certainly would have been in order in this case as well.

In the past, the United Nations has done exactly this. The General Assembly has repeatedly passed resolutions condemning the Russian action in the Hungarian revolt despite the fact the fighting has been long over and the rebels dead or imprisoned. The General Assembly also passed a resolution demanding the withdrawal of English, French and Isracli troops in the Suez area although their military objective had been reached Moreover, the troops withdrew.

We must assume from all this that the primary reason the United States did not insist upon trying to bring the Goan situation before the General Assembly was that we were sure to be defeated. Ambassador Stevenson is well aware of the growing criticism of the United Nations in this country. A majority vote against a resolution demanding the withdrawal of Indian troops and negotiations between Portugal and India would have further indicated the increasing strength and control of the General Assembly by the former colonial territories

The conquest of Goa cannot be compared to the crushing of Hungary. The Portuguese also must accept part of the blame for their last-century attitude regarding colonies.

But if the United States does not himly speak and vote in the United Nations for that which it believes to be right and true, we shall lose any leadership we still retain. Refraining from introducing the Goa matter before the General Assembly may have been practical politics. But Mr. Stevenson should not try to absolve us with pious platitudes.

Teachers of the Future

There are conflicts in the educational world that never seem to get closer to a solution.

School boards regrettably have been far more occupied with buildings and budgets than they have with the subject matter or how it is taught in schools. But recently, as board members have shown a trend to become more involved with the professional matters of education, teachers have gone in the opposite direction with demands for a bigger voice in both salaries and policies. Whether one is the cause of the other, or which is the cause of the other is difficult to

In New York City, the United Federation of Teachers, a member of the Amerman Federation of Teachers, has won bargaining rights to deal with the board of education. The AFT has a small membership throughout the country but it is growing in size and influence particularly in the larger cities. It has given lip service to improving the professional status of the teacher but it has gone on record almost always as being more concerned with pay and job opportunity than professional standing.

It has, for instance, opposed merit pay for teachers and educational television. The latter may have restrictions but is being used with profit in some communities. Merit pay at present is almost impossible to put into effect because no one has been able to determine a way of effectively measuring a teacher's worth in the classroom. But the salary schedule method is also considered unsatistactory since it ties the hands of school board members or administrators. The best teachers often go into industry or business where they can be paid according to their ability instead of strictly according to graduate credits or years of

Since members of school boards usually are elected or at least appointed by elected officials, they have a public responsibility both financially and policywise to the public which is lacking in the AFT. But their neglect of education has led to a tremendous gap in educational policies around the country. Teachers are as subject to trends and schools of thought as everyone else. By the time the public, through its school boards or some interested citizens, gets around to objecting to something in education it usually has been discarded for some time.

At present there seems to be no way of assuring high enough salaries to the excellent teachers without greatly overpaying the inadequate. Organizations such as the AFT, more concerned with money than professional status, seem bound to increase in strength and influence, which will mean that school boards will have to study more closely subject matter and methods than they have in the past. The effect upon the teacher may be Children reveal an amazing ability to develop sometimes as much in spite of school as because of it. But can teachers show as much flexibility?

Algeria Still Bleeds

The continued war in Algeria is getting so monotonous that it gets buried on inside pages in most newspapers. But the killings continue, the terrorism has been stepped up and the trend is toward a development of such hatred that it may take generations to erase.

Raoul Salan, former General of the French Army who was stripped of his rank and sentenced to death in absentia, apparently is pulling the strings that trigacr the explosions. He most likely is in Sman but his Secret Army Organization Les been increasingly bold in bombings and murders. In retaliation, the Moslem-I LN has been expected to step up teri irism against all Europeans who oppose Nu man independence

Meanwhile the talks between Presicert De Gaule's representatives, and members of the F.L.N. go on and may not be far from an agreement. Since that agreement is almost certain to be complete independence for Algeria, with some economic ties to France, the real horror then will begin. It will be up to the French Army to put down the revolt of the French SAO with no man knowing whom his neighbor backs

The tragedy in this struggle is that the war the SAO is waging has been long lost. The people these rebels are harming most are not the Moslems or those who favor independence for Algeria but the Europeans in Algeria who would like to stay there and live in peace and harmony with the Arabs. The futility of the hattle makes little difference to those who must suffer and die. Unfortunately it dooms a great many others, many of them innocent, to the same fates.

The Reds on Civil Defense

Not long ago Mrs. Khrushchev assized some American distors, that the Six of timen was dome nothing whatever in the may of preparing fallout, shelters Many Anameans considered this bit of news encouraging and an indication that in all probability there would be no nu-Citat Wat

However two representatives of the Soviet embasss in Washington have shown an unusual interest in the American Civil Defense program. They recently borrowed three unclassified films from the Civil Defense headquarters in Washington George R. Rodericks, district Cail Defense director, said the men first claimed to be members of a private concern in the city. Three days later, when they returned the film and asked for more, they were told to make their request through the State Department. They haven't been seen or heard at defense headquarters since

Football Rules Get a Few Minor Touchups

NCAA to Survey All Studies on Grid Injuries

Fritz Crister, former Michigan coach who served as acting chairman, said he believed most coaches would find the committee's actions acceptable.

"The small colleges favor one rule, the universities like another." Crisler said. "I think, however, the majority do not want

The men who know cars best put Chevy II to the test. And, after they had compared it with the rest of the '62 crop, the editors of Car Life magazine picked Chevy II for their coveted Engineering Excellence Award. Why? Here are some of the reasons in the editors' own words: "The Chevy II, in either 4- or 6-cylinder form, represents an important de-

WE PRICE YOUR PRESCRIPTIONS TO THE LOWEST PENNY...

(and it often saves you dollarsi) d

Yes, at Walgreens, where profits are counted in pennies, the cost of your prescription is figured just that closely, too . . . to the exact cent . . . to the lowest price.

HOW can we get prices so low? Because we fill over 51/2 million prescriptions a year and because we keep extra costs out, we can operate on such a low margin that even so-called "non-profit" plans can rarely match a Walgreen price!
